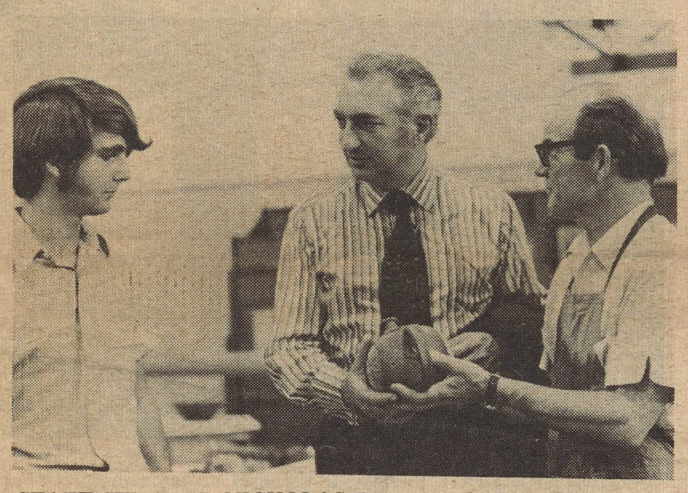
PRETTY BEV SMITH is the gifted artist who drew this graphite portrait, which was included in last week's art fair at Carmel High School.



STATE SENATOR NICHOLAS PETRIS of Alameda County talked to a humanities class at Carmel High School last week about air pollution and effective anti-pollution lobbying. Afterwards, he had a chance to talk with Lloyd Baskerville, right, popular ceramics and crafts teacher, and student Ron Russell as the humanities class enjoyed an advance preview of the art show.

TALENTED YOUNG ARTISTS at Carmel High School put o a two-day show last week in the gymnasium. Paintings pottery, woodwork of all kinds and metal work wer displayed, while dancers and musicians added their ow artistic touch. Here one of the dancers, Ziggy Bewley, pause to talk with art teacher William F. Stone.

Skip Marquard expresses Developer's views on Hillside Conservation . . .

'The right to develop land under reasonable controls'

BY PAT GRIFFITH

"I think the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association lost its case on hillside zoning when it got out of the planning business into the area of confiscation."

This is Skip Marquard speaking. As a long-time Valley resident, partner in Porter-Marquard, and president of the Carmel Board of Realtors, he speaks for the "other side" of the zoning issue.

He helped organize the successful opposition to the CVPOA's 2½-acre minimum hillside conservation ordinance before the County Board of Supervisors. Now he's seeking a way for developers and the CVPOA to work together to protect both Carmel Valley's natural beauty and the property rights of individuals.

"The CVPOA basically ignored land economics as they exist," Marquard explained in his office last week. "You have to take into consideration that several thousand acres have been purchased and sold since 1955, and the purchases have been somewhat based on prevailing acre zoning.

"In many cases since 1960 land has been sold at over $1000 an acre. So we really get into the question of good zoning and property rights."

Marquard said that the CVPOA's goals -- to conserve hillsides and establish reasonable population and sewage controls -- are at least partially met by provisions in Monterey County's new subdivision ordinance.

This new restrictive ordinance controls lot design, the physical layout of the subdivision including site and road locations, and extensive drainage requirements.

In addition, he said, the County has a grading ordinance which requires developers to haul away loose dirt.

"This may not solve all the aesthetic problems," he said, "but it's somewhat questionable if a use permit would solve these problems either. It would be subject to the same enforcement problems."

Marquard feels the best way to preserve hillsides is to provide good incentive zoning for clustering, such as stated in the Etienne amendment, which would allow clustering on a one unit per acre minimum regardless of the degree of slope.

"This probably isn't the final answer as far as population control goes," he added, "but it's a step in the right direction. I think if you want to preserve hillsides, you're going to have to give a bit on all-out population control."

FORESEES 30,000 POPULATION

Marquard said he hasn't seen any really definitive population studies on Carmel Valley. But he thinks it reasonable to project a population of 30,000 by 1990 in the area stretching from Highway 1 through Los Tulares.

To handle this enlarged population he favors widening the Carmel Valley Road to four lanes as far east as Laureles Grade, but then keeping it a two-lane road with speed controlled through the Village area.)

Marquard also disagrees with the CVPOA's insistence that hillside developers should be required to hook onto an existing sewage line if it is within two miles of their property.

"I think this is unreasonable," he said, "because you're speaking of two miles as the crow files, and if you have to follow the road or contour of the land to reach the sewage line, it might be well in excess of two miles.This would make development of a small parcel economically unfeasible."

Marquard thinks the Valley should develop a master sewage plan, with the economic burden falling equally on all property owners, and not primarily on those who have held their land off the market with the intention of developing it in the future.

"And there may be some merit in requiring cluster developments to have a package sewage treatment facility," he added.

But it is in the area of road requirements that Marquard and the CVPOA may well find themselves in complete agreement.

The CVPOA is very concerned about hillside scarring, caused by slashing subdivision roads across the face of hills.

ROAD PROBLEM

He pointed out that the County Road Department sets all road standards for subdivisions or any other developments. It applies a design speed criteria for these roads and insists they be engineered to handle traffic travelling 25 miles an hour. This is the same speed and engineering requirement applied to freeway off-ramps.

Marquard explained that these standards are expensive for developers to meet, and, in the case of hillside building, often result in much cutting and scarring.

He is hopeful the CVPOA will work to reduce the rural road standards as the most effective way to deal with hillside scarring.

"I have a lot of hope for the future," he smiled. "I think the CVPOA has a lot of far sighted, reasonable people. From our meetings in the last week or two at the local advisory board level, we're in agreement that some additional controls are necessary, and that hillside control should be a primary consideration.

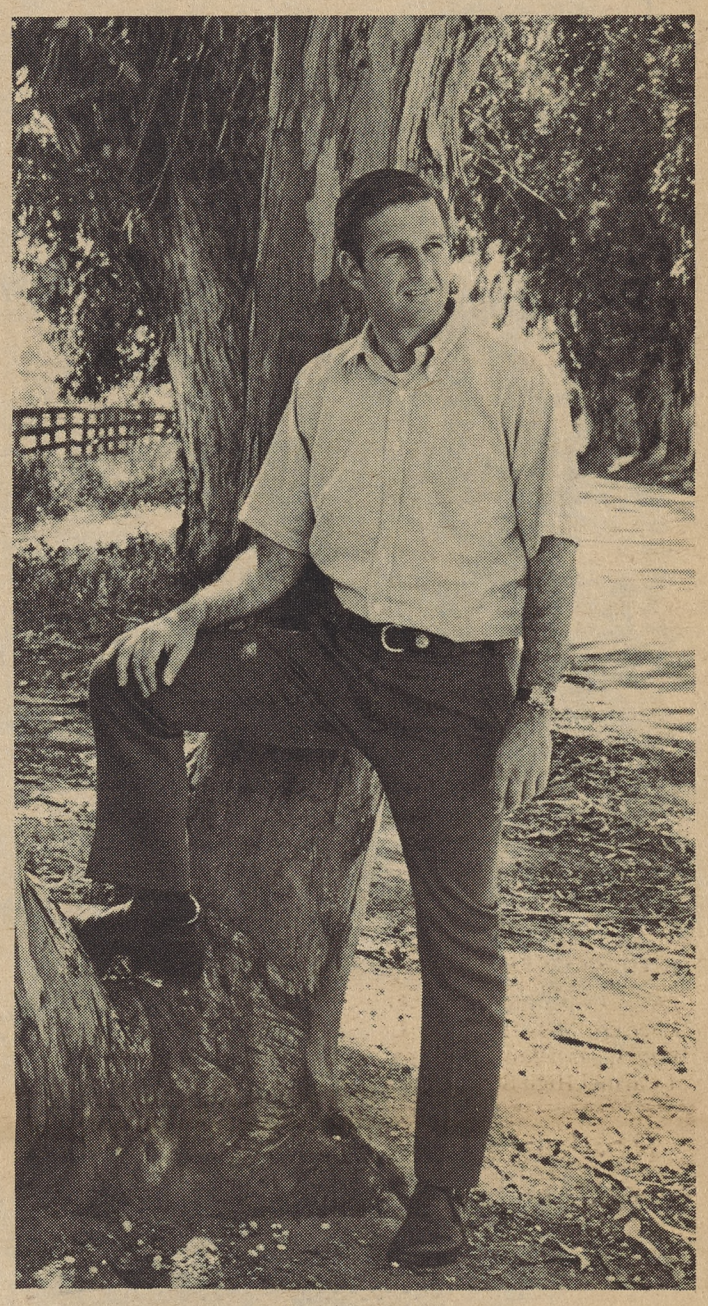
"An SC (scenic conservation) zone might be the answer, but a 2½ acre minimum applied with SC would not be acceptable to a majority of owners of undeveloped land."

Marquard said that personally he feels that a 1½ acre SC zone might be acceptable.

"Based on existing subdivisions, this would be okay," he said. "But for a cluster subdivision, I think the incentive should be oriented toward a one acre minimum, or there might not be the incentive to cluster as opposed to building a regular subdivision."

He summed up his views this way:

"The people in Carmel Valley have been the beneficiaries of the enjoyment of thousands of acres of undeveloped land. I think there's no question that owners of that land do, in a sense, hold it in public trust. And at the same time they have a right to expect to be able to use and develop the land under reasonable controls, and future generations have the right to be able to expect to acquire homesites at reasonable price levels and enjoy Carmel Valley as we do."



SKIP MARQUARD, partner in Carmel Valley's largest real estate and development firm, looks up at Valley hillsides from the shade of a towering eucalyptus tree by the Porter-Marquard office. Marquard has opposed the CVPOA's attempts to get 2½ acre minimum hillside zoning applied to Carmel Valley, but feels there are several areas in which there is a potential for agreement.

Carmel High School seeks counselor to abate drug problem

BY PAT GRIFFITH

HELP WANTED: Community counselor position open in choice coastal community. Must have background in psychology, proven ability to deal with all phases of drug abuse problems. Must be able to talk with and advise young people without turning them off. Must also be able to counsel concerned parents, conduct in-service training programs for teachers and enlist community support for effective drug prevention program. Hours: around the clock. Office: on the street, in coffee houses, in homes, wherever you find young people or they find you. Salary: open.

This ad isn't real, but the job is.

The opening was created last week by the Carmel Board of Education, which approved a recommendation of its drug misuse committee to hire a community counselor to deal with the local drug scene.

Trustee James Miller, chairman of the committee, explained to the board some of the general duties of this unique counselor.

He will not be tied down in school offices, Miller said, but will be more of a free agent, moving along Ocean Ave. or any other area where young people congregate. Sometimes he will talk with small groups or individual students in an informal meeting place away from school premises, possibly a coffee house.

As an expert in the drug field, he will be able to advise teachers on drug education materials and help them to assist students with drug problems. He will be the sort of person kids can come to on their own,secure in the knowledge he can be trusted to keep their conversations confidential.

He will also be the lightning rod for the inquiries and fears of parents, and will counsel them on family drug problems.

And finally, he will be a person with the leadership and expertise necessary to meld all facets of the drug program -- prevention, education, medical assistance - into a cohesive, community-wide effort.

"We need better and more professional advice," Miller declared. "Even my committee has reached the point where we feel inadequate ... It's a hard thing to get hold of."

The general role of the community counselor will be patterned, in part, after a similar program that has been in operation in the Salinas school district for the past year.

No specific salary range was set for the new position, but Supt. of Schools Harris Taylor assured board members it would be "reasonable" and in keeping with the district's pay scale for classified employees.

TIME FOR ACTION

"I think it's time for someone to take a strong, decisive position (on the drug problem)," Taylor said. "The state is wringing its hands, the county is wringing its hands, the schools are wringing their hands. The very little being done is uncoordinated.

"The first step this group could take is to get someone knowledgeable. The schools really aren't equipped to handle this problem. They can do some counseling, but youngsters are only here part of the day ... then they're out in the community ..."

While acknowledging that there is a drug problem among Carmel youth, Taylor was sharply critical of recent statements by Dr. Timothy Hobson of the Drug Information and Youth Crisis Center that there are approximately 100 heroin users in Carmel schools today.

Taylor said this figure is based on second or third-hand information and that Dr. Hobson has no firm date on which to base this statement.

"I doubt it seriously that one in 100 in Carmel High School is involved with heroin," Taylor said. "It's my impression from counselors and students that we do have a problem, but it's not of that magnitude."

Miller called the figure "strictly a subjective guesstimate," and board chairman Hilton Bialek added, "I think it's irresponsible to give that kind of data."

One member of the audience, Robert Oross, questioned the use of school funds for the community counselor. Taylor replied that once the counselor is hired and an effective program is underway, it is likely the school district will be reimbursed from county or state funds for the counselor's salary.

OTHER MATTERS

In other matters, the board:

1. Decided students receive adequate family life instruction in health and biology classes, but agreed to consider the recommendation of Carmel High School Principal Arthur Gumbrell that some additional information be given to high school students about venereal diseases.

2. Twice rejected proposed calendars for the 1970-71 school year on a 2-2 tie vote. (Trustee Richard Wilsdon was absent). The first calendar, which teachers strongly favored, ran from Sept. 2 to June 10, with 178 teaching days. The second began Sept. 10 and ended June 17, with 180 teaching days. Teacher representatives were told to go back to the staff and try to find other acceptable proposals.

3. Hired Mrs. Patricia Lee to teach girls' physical education at Carmel Middle School, and Susan Williams to be a home economics teacher at the high school.

4. Awarded an $8,894.63 bid to Erwin Ford of Salinas for a new 66-passenger Wayne school bus and bids totalling $15,238.50 for audio visual equipment.

Saving old newspapers has two big benefits

Do you want to know something simple and direct you can do to help save the natural environment and fight pollution at the same time?

Save and bundle all your old newspapers, except for colored comics and slick-paper magazine sections. Starting Monday, June 1, the Carmel and Carmel Valley Disposal Service will collect bundled papers at individual homes and businesses as a public service on a one-month trial basis.

The old newspapers will be stored and eventually shipped to a pulp paper dealer in Southern California, where they will go through a recycling process and be transformed into fresh newsprint.

For every ton of newspapers collected and recycled, 17 trees will be saved. Every pound of papers saved means that much less garbage to be hauled away, dumped and buried.

It all makes good ecological sense. And the local garbage company is willing to give it a try to see if it makes economic sense as well.

In San Francisco, more than 2000 tons of old newspapers were salvaged in the past four weeks. These papers were recycled into approximately 1800 tons of fresh newsprint -- the equivalent of 31,000 trees, which make up the primary raw material for manufacturing paper.

This collection drive is continuing in San Francisco, and the Garden State Paper Co., one of the major paper reclamation firms in the nation, is now studying the possibility of establishing a newspaper re-cycling plant in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Such a plant would need to receive 300 tons of old newspapers a day, collected from throughout the greater Bay Area and other counties in Northern California.

The Monterey Peninsula could play a key role in this development. If enough people take the trouble to sort, save and bundle their old newspapers, the disposal service has promised it will continue to collect and ship newspapers after the end of June.

This tonnage, added to that coming out of the Bay Area, could help tip the balance in favor of building a pulp paper plant in Northern California. And if the plant is built, undoubtedly other garbage collection firms in other smaller communities will decide it is economically feasible to salvage old newspapers too.

Remember, one ton of recycled newsprint equals 17 trees.

At that rate, you New York Times subscribers could save a whole forest each in 1970.

Vandals wreak havoc in Robles del Rio

Vandals, believed to be juveniles, went on a wildly destructive spree in Robles del Rio early Saturday morning, toppling scores of mailboxes and street signs.

Startled residents, awakened at 2:30 a.m. by the rowdy rampage, went outside to find mailboxes shattered and signs hacked down at their base.

The Monterey County Sheriff's Department said that it received a report that five or six juveniles were seen leaving the area in a yellow and white land rover. There was also an eye-witness account of several young men wearing jeans and white tee shirts tearing off in a blue pick-up truck.

Damage was most extensive along Calle de los Ositos, Quien Sabe and at Camp Steffani.

Sheriff's deputies also received a report of a mailbox knocked down on El Cammito a short time later.

The investigation is continuing.

Another road north out of Carmel Valley

Plans for another road from Carmel Valley to the Monterey-Salinas Highway, to supplement Laureles Grade, may finally be getting off the ground.

At last week's County Planning Commission meeting in Salinas, the commission heard a preliminary report by Bruce McClain, county road commissioner, on the La Canada de la Segunda Route, which would cross the low mountains from Valley Greens Road in the lower Valley to the Del Rey Oaks turnoff on the Monterey-Salinas Highway.

It would be about six miles long, and move a considerable amount of traffic off of lower Carmel Valley Road moving to and from such places as the Monterey Airport and Seaside.

Commissioner Ed Marcucci of Carmel Valley said that the road has been considered for many years, and that a hearing on route consideration has been set for hearing at the June 10 meeting.

Even if plans to proceed with the road are to start this year, it is likely that the completion of such a trans-mountain route is at least five years away.

Monterey Symphony Guild meeting

The Monterey County Symphony Guild, Peninsula Chapter, will hold its annual meeting at the Mark Thomas Inn on Tuesday in the Terrace Room. The social hour starts at 12:00 and the luncheon at 12:30. Price is $3.50 including tax and tip.

Mrs. Thomas M. Hamilton, president of the San Diego Symphony Association and member of the California Arts Commission, will be the speaker.

There will be a report from the nominating committee followed by the election of new officers for the coming year. A most important decision must be made as to revision of guild dues.

TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

Five months ago the Kennedy Engineers drew up a report for the California-American Water Company, which detailed the safe annual yield (25,000 acre feet), capacity, (45,000 acre feet), dam height (280 feet), and costs (total: 8.3 million dollars) at the enlarged San Clemente damsite.

Now it would seem that the yield and capacity figures were all wet. Mr. Fuller reveals in the Outlook May 13, 1970 issue, that the watered down safe annual yield at this site is only 11,000 acre feet.

Could the engineers have made such an error? This would be a miscalculation of more than 100 percent in yield and over 400 percent in capacity!!!

Such an error might be understandable in costs, which move about dramatically, but to my knowledge, the mountains in the San Clemente area have not moved since December, when the engineers report was submitted.

But then, miracles do happen. Perhaps one rainless day, the Redtape Sea may open up and let the Army of subscribers (120,000 draftees) pass, armed with facts and faith undampened.

Sincerely,
MARY H. GAYMAN

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE FORTUNE of La Rancheria entertained as their house guest last week, Mrs. John V. Tunney. Mieke Sprengers Tunney, wife of senatorial candidate John Tunney is a personal friend of the Fortune's daughter who resides in Los Angeles. The attractive Mieke is a native of Nijmegen, The Netherlands, where she was educated and graduated in 1958 from the University of Nijmegen with a major in journalism. Her romance with John Tunney began while he was a student at the Academy of International Law in The Hague. Their marriage took place two years later. They are the parents of three children; Edward 8, Mark 5; and Arianne, 2, and still she finds time to actively campaign for her husband and is completing a book, "Beautiful California -- A Last Clear Chance," which will be published soon. Her subject deals with preservation of the environment.

She has become involved in some of the issues which concern her husband, especially the Head Start Program in Washington and has accompanied him on many fact finding tours. Valley and Peninsula residents who met the vivacious Mrs. Tunney agreed that she is a most charming political asset.

ON A MOTHER'S DAY TRIP to Northern California, a Country Club Drive couple and their son were so captivated by the scenic beauty of the area that they are now land owners of three pieces of property on Saddle Ridge and Doe Drive of the new recreation-land development called Lake Shastina. Cmdr. and Mrs. William Stowers and their son, Richard drove to Oakland and flew in the company's plane to the Siskiyou airport.

They were met in a snowstorm (big fluffy flakes which did not last) and given a royal tour of the land which includes hunting, fishing, golfing, tennis, boating, skiing and a bounty of material for rock hounds. The development even includes a children's Matterhorn slide into a swimming hole.

DAWNELLE RENEE FELLOWS is the melodious name selected by Renee and Jerry Fellows for their 8 lb. 14 oz. baby daughter who arrived May 12 at Community Hospital. The new arrival shares the date with her maternal grandmother who with her husband, Major (ret.) Frank M. Balsius of Carmel welcomed this, their seventh grandchild. The Fellows are former residents of Robles Del Rio and only recently returned from Maui where Jerry was the Food and Beverages manager at the Sheraton-Maui in Hawaii to assume a similar position with Nick Lombardo's Rancho Canada Golf and Country Club. Jerry is well known in the area as the former Food and Beverages manager for 2½ years at the Naval Post Graduate School Officer's Club from where he transferred to the Hacienda Carmel. Shortly after their marriage they went to manage the Officer's Club at the Yokosuka Naval Base in Japan.

VALLEY RESIDENTS have long felt the need for a safe hiking, bicycling and bridal path. A group calling themselves the Monterey Peninsula Committee for Bicycle Safety was recently formed who hope to promote the widening of Carmel Valley Road. They will be cooperating with the Trails Committee of the County Board of Supervisors. Petitions have been placed with Rev. James Brock, at the Mid-Valley Chevron Station, and Upper Valley residents may phone 659-2468. A meeting is scheduled for Friday by the Committee and anyone interested may phone for more details: Dr. Malcomb Bauer 624-3254, Mrs. Stephen McCann, 624-7295, or Lewis de Stephano, 624-4688.

SOMETHING NEW has been added to the Carmel Valley Community Center thanks to the Carmel Valley Women's Club who took some of their proceeds from the Champagne Auction held last fall at Rancho Del Monte Resort and purchased ..... (if you guessed, "Is it bigger than a bread box" .. you're right!) ..... a new double door refrigerator-freezer. The welcome new appliance was installed before the Club's May Tea held at the Center so members had ample opportunity to both view and utilize it. News of more contributions will be forthcoming from Mrs. I.T. Johnson, organization president, in the near future.

Among the impromptu parties was one held at the Lagoon in Carmel with guests asked to bring off-beat items such as "one hamburger pattie and three bananas ... one hamburger pattie and a package of marshmallows ... one hamburger pattie and a package of chocolate chips ... etc." The Valley group arrived at the State Park, established a site, and one member of their party went in search of bigger and better driftwood down the beach. Enroute it was necessary to cross the mouth of the Carmel River where the tide, just coming in had filled a large deep hole and the heroine of our story .... 'er .... fell in!

Undaunted, dripping, but determined, she continued down the beach until she found a log nine feet in length and foot in diameter which she proceeded to drag back up the beach telling herself every agonizing step that it would make a cheery yule log. Reaching the river mouth, she discovered not only very high, but also very troubled waters and was unable to cross. Her cries for help finally fell not only upon the ears of fellow Valleyites, but also those of a bermuda shorts-clad tourist and his wife. Chivalry is NOT dead after all because this gallant gentleman forged the stream and to the cheers of 17 little girls brought ..... their BROWNIE GIRL SCOUT LEADER to safety (ala piggyback) and then returned a second time to capture Mrs. Richard King's yule log! 'Tis reported that the hamburgers were delicious, and the celery sticks stuffed with peanut butter and foil boats baked with bananas, marshmallows and chocolate chips were dessert supreme! Good food and adventure, too!

The recent booth of produce and livestock manned by the club at the Plaza during a recent Bicentennial function was reported a huge success. Bill Ingram, club dignitary, who transported a carload of ducks, chickens and the baby goat created quite a stir on the freeway. The goat insisted upon sitting in the front seat and a rooster escaped and was flying around. (All of which was viewed for several miles by a highway patrolman who pulled along side but apparently decided that the situation though strange was harmless!) The goat incidentally was purchased by Rev. Jim Brock and now resides in Robinson Canyon.

Crime also rising in Carmel Valley

If you are under the impression that there are more burglaries in Carmel Valley than there used to be, you're absolutely right.

The Monterey County Sheriff's Department reports a sharp increase in the number of residential burglaries everywhere, up about 12-15 percent in the first quarter of 1970 as compared to a year ago.

And while the increase is not as dramatic in Carmel Valley, the figures are still up: 45 burglaries reported through March, 1970, against 40 for the same period of 1969.

The Valley is also showing an upward trend in two other categories for the first quarter of 1970: petty theft and malicious mischief. During the first quarter of 1969 there were 20 cases of petty theft in the Valley; this year there were 29. Malicious mischief rose from 9 cases in the first quarter of 1969 to 20 cases for the first three months of 1970.

The sheriff's department is convinced that much of this increase in crime can be attributed to the drug scene. Color television sets are frequently stolen. So are stereos, radios, guns, watches and other items that can be quickly and easily sold for cash.

On recent narcotics arrest in Carmel resulted in clearing up 12 burglary cases. Deputies point out that as more and more young people become heroin users, their daily expenses for drugs can quickly mount to $50 or more. More often than not, the money comes from selling stolen goods.

In a report prepared early this year for the County Board of Supervisors, Sheriff Jack Davenport noted that residential burglaries rose 78.6 percent between 1967 and 1969. The value of stolen property went up from $327,188 in 1967 to $1,313,399 in 1969.

"This has one meaning," Davenport said. "It is becoming easy to burglarize a home, and it is believed residents themselves, although unaware, contribute to the ease by notifying the criminals when their home is unprotected, or unattended, by not taking proper safeguards in their absence."

THINGS NOT TO DO

Such things as allowing newspapers or mail to accumulate for even a day or two, leaving doors unlocked or a garage door open when the car is gone all make the burglar's job an easy one.

The burglar has several additional advantages in the Valley, where homes are frequently not visible from the road or neighboring property.

"Only about one burglar out of 100 is close to getting caught," admitted one deputy. "They watch homes ahead of time, and they have all the advantages."

Ironically, Carmel Valley homes are being burglarized more freqnently even though the Valley is now getting the best police protection it has ever received.

Between midnight and 8 a.m. there is at least one car with two men patrolling the area from the mouth of the Valley to the Village. A few years ago there was no sheriff's car regularly assigned to the Valley on the midnight shift.

As daylight approaches, around 5 a.m., the deputies split into two cars, and during the day one, or more likely two, units cover the Valley. Between 4 p.m. and midnight there are two, and frequently three, sheriff's car in this area.

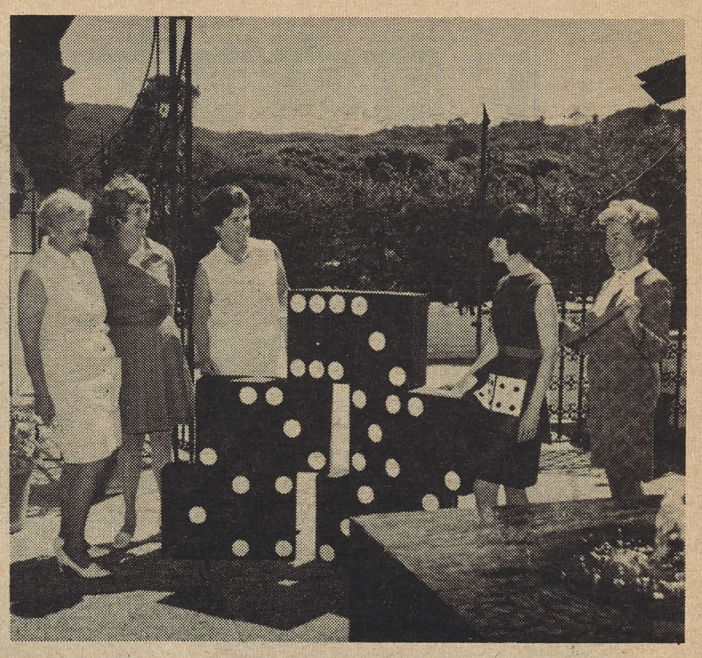
Although felony reports are the most dramatic and concern residents the most, the deputies spent most of their time handling a variety of calls.

During 1969, statistics for Carmel Valley showed 6 assaults, 126 burglaries, 119 petty thefts, 15 domestic cases, 50 malicious mischief cases, 57 juvenile offenses, 7 narcotics cases and 621 "other."

That "other" category covers everything from persons frightened by noises or suspicious circumstances to a malfunctioning burglar alarm to a call to rescue a stranded animal.

"If someone calls for assistance, we're obligated to go," a deputy explained. "We don't think we should decide over the phone whether or not it is really a valid call."

In a recent talk at Carmel Valley Manor, Sheriff Davenport said he had instituted several reforms to enable more deputies to spend their time on active patrol and less on routine office chores. He said he will continue to look for new procedures to strengthen his force on duty throughout the county.



BIG DOMINOS SET the scene for a tournament to benefit the Drug Information and Youth Crisis Center of Monterey County. The all-day event, sponsored by the Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club, will be held Tuesday, May 26, at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club. Registration will start at 9:30 a.m., with play beginning at 10. There will be a break for a buffet luncheon, and then play will be resumed in the afternoon. Pi Phi alums readying for the contest are, left to right, Mrs. Paul Manning, Mrs. Barbara Johnson, Mrs. William Fisher, Mrs. Robert Priestly and Mrs. Irwin Johnson. Donations of $10 for the domino tournament are tax deductible, and door prizes as well as prizes for winners and losers will be awarded. Entry blanks are available at the Thunderbird bookstore the CV Golf and Country Club, the Mediterranean Market, or by calling the chairman Mrs. Robert Priestly, 624-6225, or Ruth Vail, 372-8939.

Doberman Pinscher show attracts 155 entries

The Cabrillo Doberman Pinscher Club will present its sixth annual Specialty Show and Obedience Trials on Saturday at the Carmel Valley Inn from 9:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m.

Registrations were received for 155 dogs for a total of 171 entries. (Some dogs qualify for more than one class.)

Mrs. Bob Adamson of Roslyn Heights, L.I., New York will serve as Breed Judge with a total of 138 entries. Scott K. Roberts of Carpinteria will judge 33 entries in the Obedience Class.

Entries are from all over California, also from Arizona, Washington and Ohio. The Club will hold a buffet dinner on Friday evening from 8 until 11 at the Carmel Valley Community Center in honor of the judges and exhibitors.

The Rhyming Philosopher

CHEERIO!

If the world is all against you, and the weather isn't right; if the way that someone paints you makes you want to pick a fight; if there's no one left to guide
you and you're overcome with faults, maybe something's wrong inside you and you need a dose of salts!

Then if some shortcoming taunts you, or your efforts ring no bell, or some indiscretion haunts you with a nauseating smell; when ambition can't impel you as you climb the pregnant path, maybe something tries to tell you now's the time to take a bath!

Let us then be up and doing or at least essay a bluff 'ere the crowding years accruing find us slumped down on our duff.
Lightning never strikes the same place,
so don't sound the "May Day" call; now's the time to splice the mainbrace, take your love and have a ball!

Local Board Announces Plans for Realtor Week Observance

"Under all is the land," five words that open the Realtor's Code of Ethics, have been selected as the theme of the 1970 observance of Realtor Week, May 17-23, announced M. A. "Skip" Marquard, Jr., president of the Carmel Board of Realtors.

"Our observance," Marquard said, "is one of hundreds planned throughout the nation this week to call the attention of the public to Realtors and the high professional services they render."

"The term Realtor is an indicator of special qualifications because only a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and one of the more than 1,570 local boards can identify himself by that term," Marquard explained. "To be eligible for membership, a candidate must demonstrate a superior knowledge of the business, possess a record of business integrity, and finally, subscribe to a strict code of ethics."

The National Association of Real Estate Boards, one of the country's largest trade and professional associations, was founded in 1908.

Been to Carmel Valley Lately?

We were out there last week to see our Realtor friends and to visit the local banks. How that place is growing. You don't realize how large it is when you drive through it on Carmel Valley Road, but if you'll drive on through the Village and park near Holman Road, get out and look across the canyon, you'll see hundreds of homes nestled on the hillside. It's a beautiful view and we've insured a lot of that area. The only reason we mention it, is that we want you to know that just because the property you choose to live on is like this instead of like this ---, we'll still insure it for you. Land is land and no matter if it is on a hill or in a valley or out on the plains, it's still valuable. Don't ever take the risk of losing it because you didn't get a Title Policy. We've been in the business for 35 years and it is said "Experience is a dear teacher". When in need of the services of a title company, keep Coast Counties Land Title Company in mind. We're easy to find and easier still to do business with. And don't forget, your realtor can be your friend in need.

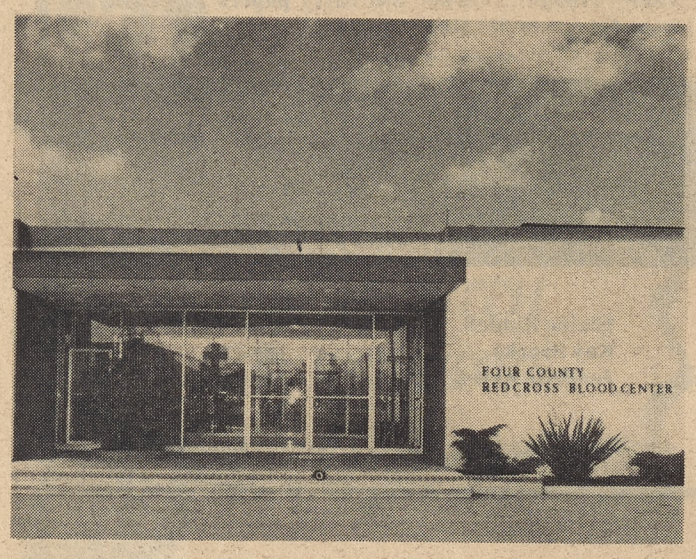
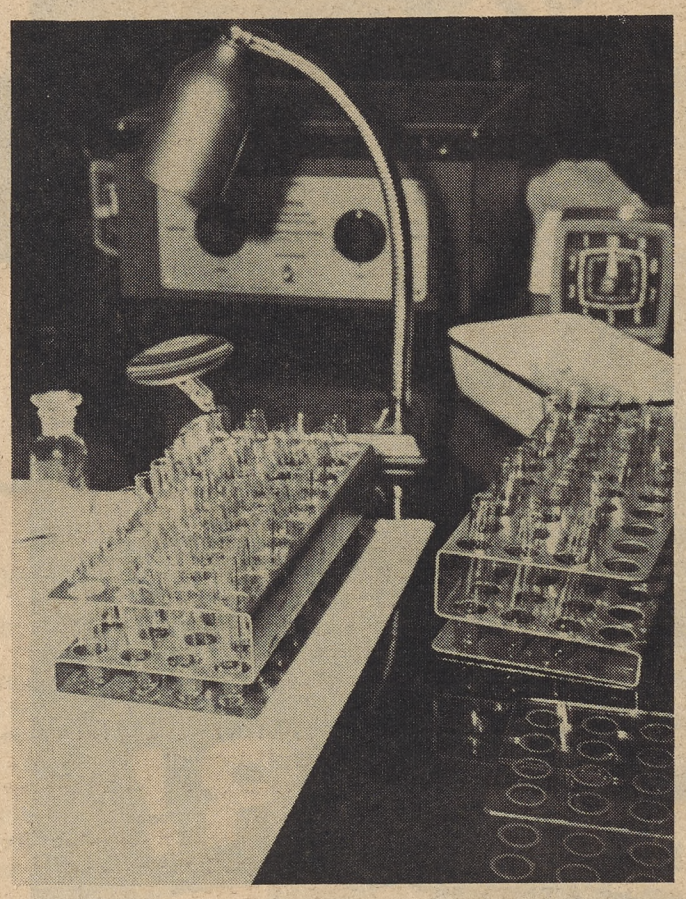
Bloodmobile to visit Carmel Valley on May 28

Story and Photos by Jody Cooper

Your blood may save someone elses life



Home of Four Counties Red Cross Blood Center in San Jose where the following steps in processing and storing the blood are shown.



Set up for detecting syphillis in the blood.

One of the greatest medical discoveries in history was how to use BLOOD from one human to save the life of another. Thousands of people alive today have survived accidents and major operations only because someone cared enough to give his blood.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be stationed at the C.V. Firehouse, Thursday, May 28, from 3 to 6:30. Blood may be given to protect your family in case of need, in the name of a "Credit Club" or to replace blood. A special appeal is being made for Clyde Lucas who has used 24 pints since the last drawing, and Mal Tavares for whom plasma was used.

Mrs. Thos. McKiernon will answer questions about the Blood Program.

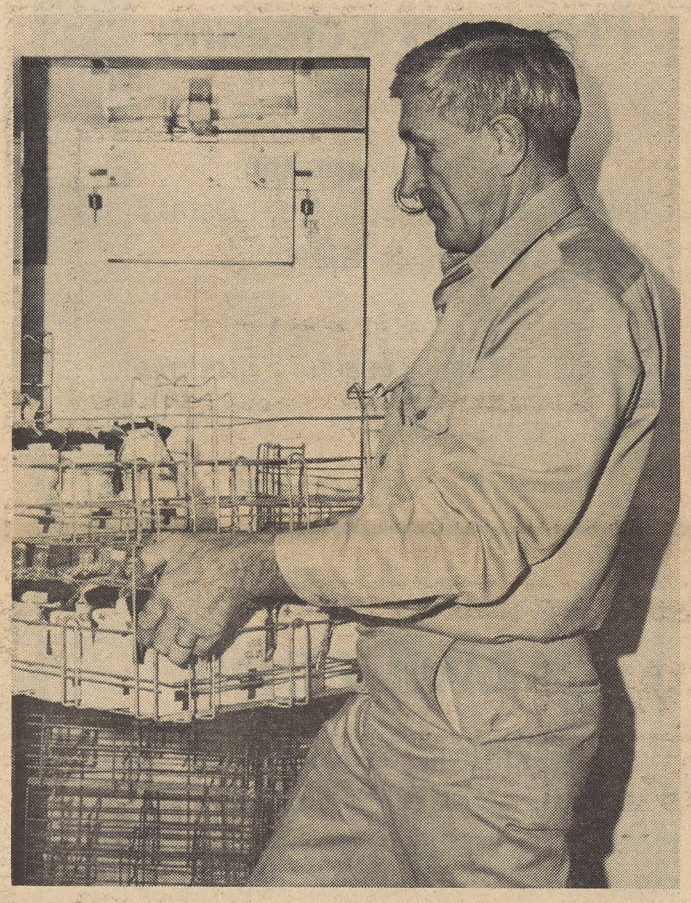
Question: What happens to the unit of blood I donate?

Answer: It may be used as whole blood or it may be separated into its components and used to treat specific conditions. Blood is medicine and none is ever wasted. If your unit is used as whole blood, its type and group are identified, labeled and stored. Whole blood will keep up to 3 weeks. Blood is delivered to hospitals which cross-match the type with that of the patient before use.

Question: Will the person for whom I'm donating blood have to pay for it?

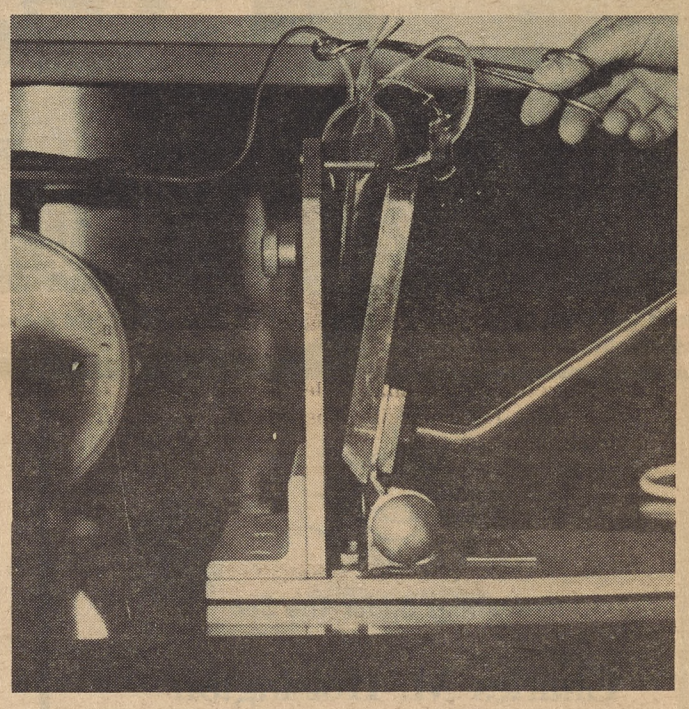
Answer: Absolutely not one penny is ever charged for the blood itself collected in the Red Cross Blood Program. But there are laboratory costs which are shared by the hospital and the Four Counties Blood Center. There is no profit involved.

The photos show some of the procedures involved in handling your unit of blood when it reaches the laboratory in San Jose.

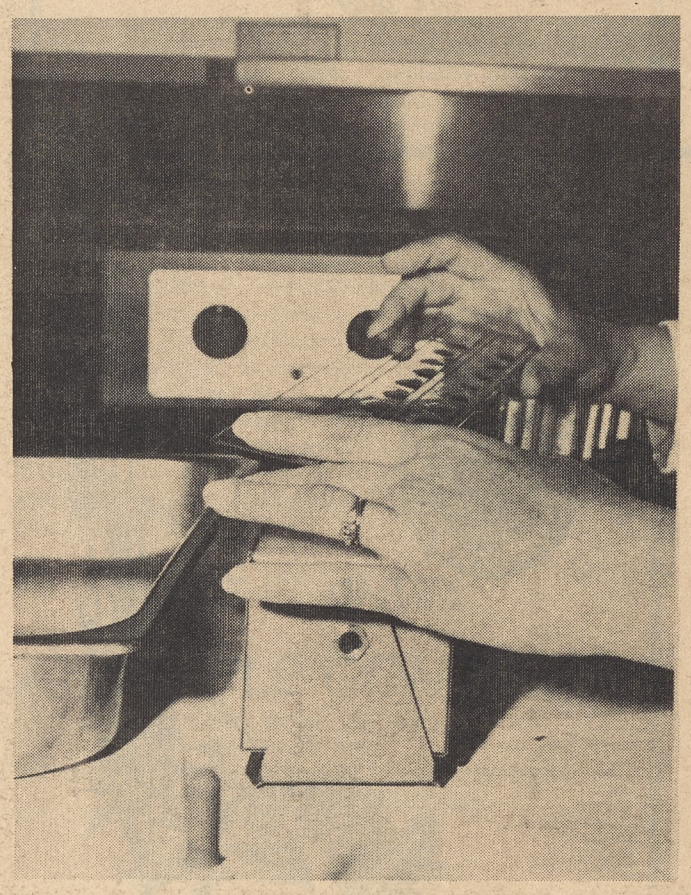


Earl Daily removes the containers of blood donated in Carmel Valley from the refrigerator and will transfer them to the laboratory.

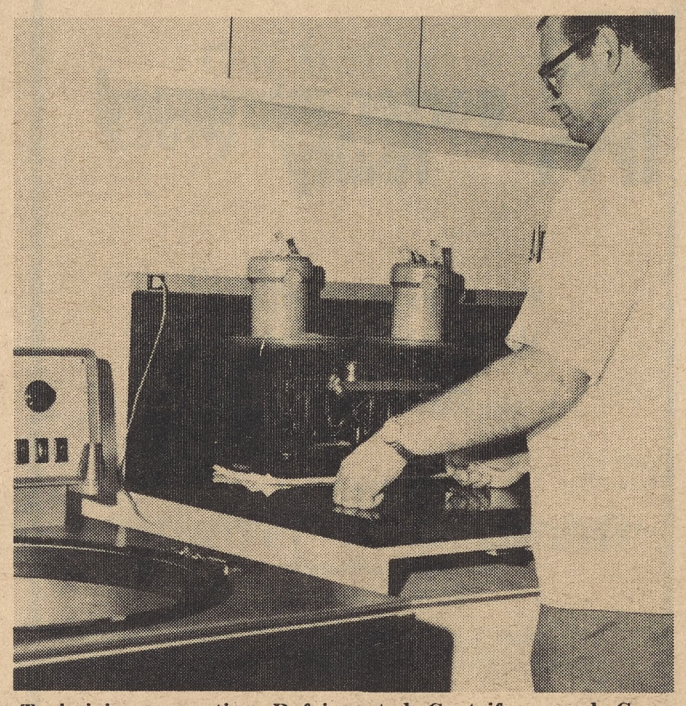
Small centrifuge and "carrier" for cell testing.



Separating red blood cells and plasma.

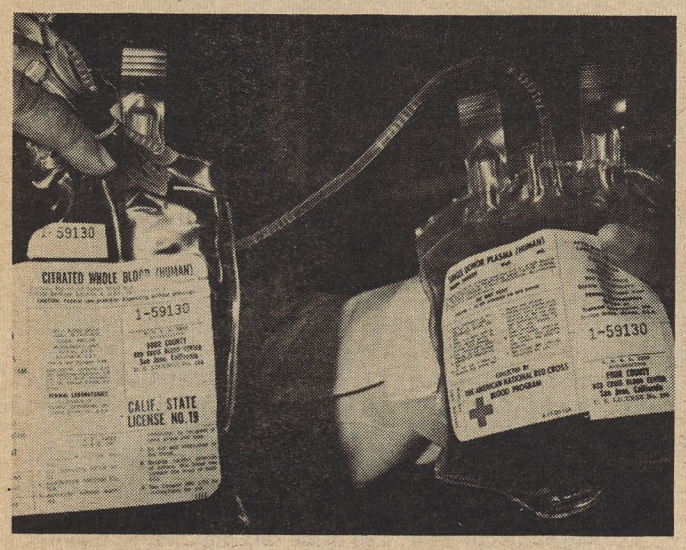


"Read Outs" on blood types A, B, and O groups.



Technician operating Refrigerated Centrifuge and Centrifuge cups.

A well-stocked Blood Bank refrigerator. Quantities of blood of a rare type of blood may be demanded any time of the day or night and delivered to the hospital with all haste.



Packed red blood cells and plasma.

Public hearing on mid-Valley Fire District

The Local Agency Formation Commission will take another look at a proposal to annex most of mid-Carmel Valley to the present Carmel Valley Fire Protection District at its meeting next Tuesday night.

The annexation hearing will begin at 8 p.m. in the Board of Supervisors chambers in Salinas.

Under consideration will be a new map of the proposed annexation area, which will include homes in Rancho Canada but definitely exclude Hacienda Carmel and Del Mesa Carmel, which form fire protection district 43. The revised map will also exclude a panhandle section of property running between the two retirement communities. At its last meeting in April, the commission recommended that this area be eliminated from the annexation district.

The effort to annex Carmel Valley property, extending roughly from Rancho Fiesta on the east to Via Petra on the west, was started more than a year ago by members of the Tierra Grande Property Owners Association.

At present, this large area of the Valley is covered by the State Forestry Division fire station at Carmel Hill, next to Community Hospital. During the winter, this station is staffed by a fire captain and a 250 or 500 gallon pump truck and an administrative man. (Fire District 43, which has a separate contract with the state, has its own fire truck with three men on duty at all times.) During the peak fire season, from June through November, the station has two fire trucks on duty.

COVER LARGE AREA

These trucks cover all the unincorporated areas of Monterey County, stretching from Big Sur to Marina, and may be called away to fight forest fires in other parts of the State. In that case, a substitute truck and crew are called in from another forestry station to stand by until the local units return.

These trucks are at least 15 minutes away from the mid-Valley area. Fire fighting experts have stated that it is necessary to reach a house fire within five minutes to save much of the structure.

Homeowners in the mid-Valley pay the highest fire protection rates allowed, class 10, while those within the fire district receive class 6 or 7 rates, a difference of 22 to 24 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

If the Mid-Valley area is annexed to the district, property taxes will increase to pay for a new fire sub-station and equipment. However, it is anticipated that much of the increase will be offset by a reduction in fire insurance costs.

Col. St. E.P. Tyner, chairman of the advisory board for Fire District 43, said on Monday there is no possibility that District 43 might expand in the future to include the mid-Valley area. He said property owners in the panhandle area between Hacienda Carmel and Del Mesa Carmel could apply to join the district if they wished, but that the district has a firm eastern boundary at Via Petra and it could not possibly afford to take in more of the Valley.

He said it was important to make this point clear, because a petition now being circulated through the Valley opposes the proposed annexation to the Carmel Valley Fire Protection District on the grounds the mid-Valley could join Fire District 43 at a lesser cost.

Tyner said he personally feels it would be in the best interests of the mid-Valley to join the Carmel Valley fire district.

Community Theatre to hold auditions for 'Wonderful Town'

The Community Theatre of the Monterey Peninsula announces auditions for actors, singers and dancers of all ages to perform in Leonard Bernstein's "Wonderful Town", the musical version of the classic play, "My Sister Eileen". It will alternate weekly during the Summer '70 Music Theatre Season with "Anything Goes" at the Circle Theatre. Opening date is scheduled for July 10.

The auditions will be held at the Circle Theatre on Sunday at 2:30 p.m., and again on Monday at 7:30 p.m. The Circle Theatre is located on Casanova Street between 8th and 9th in Carmel. The acting company known as The Golden Bough Players, is open to all who wish to audition for roles. No role has been pre-cast. Soloists trying out for major roles may bring their own music, or a simple melody will be provided. Chorus and dance auditions will be held in groups.

Bernstein's bouncy tune-filled score captures the exciting spirit and pace of Big Town New York in the mid 30's. Such tunes as "Swing!" AND THE WILDLY UPROARIOUS "Conga!" are written with the thumping beat and brassy style of the then-current rhythmic phenomena. One of the gayest, smartest shows of all time, "Wonderful Town" is bursting with youthful enthusiasm and contagious good humor.

The production will be staged by guest director Daniel Cawthon of New York, with music direction provided by Tom Fordham. Rehearsals will begin about June 7. For further information phone Community Theatre at 624-2669.

EUGENE BAKER
Special Exhibit at ZANTMAN Art Galleries
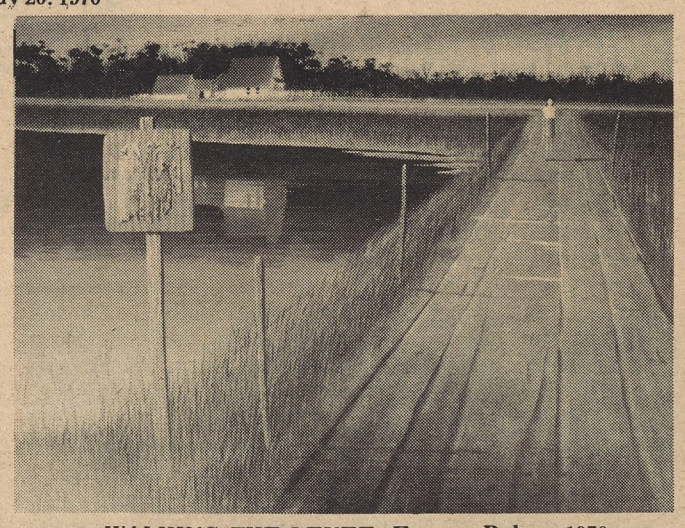
MAY 16 - JUNE 5
Together with
Elaine Sinnard of New York



WALKING THE LEVEE. Eugene Baker, 1970.

Zantman Art Galleries has two one-man shows

Zantman Art Galleries announced the opening of two simultaneous, one-man shows at their gallery on Sixth. The shows, which began Saturday and will run through June 5, feature the works of Eugene Baker and Elaine Sinnard, both American.

Baker, a Californian, is very concerned with artistic medievalism. Many of his paintings are evocative of the mystic perspective and fey expressionism that was found in pre-Renaissance Europe and revived briefly by the Germans in the latter 19th Century.

Baker's paintings are unnerving. Even when his subject matter is the familiar farmhouse, he manages to effect a slight unreality, a disquieting bleakness which make many of his works at once both pastoral and psychological.

As he writes, "The realism in my work is not so much as the eye would see it but more as the mind would. The dimension is not always achieved with the conventional perspective but with the juxtaposition of objects in the painting to achieve a dimension beyond pure realism."

Baker is married to artist Ann Rugh and lives in Carmel Valley. Both he and his wife attended the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland, graduating in 1951, and subsequently teaching and painting.

Elaine Sinnard's work, which comprises the second show, inclines more to abstraction, but with organic emphasis. Her reputation gaining rapidly, she has recently been commissioned by Scandinavian Airlines to compose a series of five murals.

Born in Colorado, Elaine Sinnard has studied widely, both in New York at the Art Students League and in Paris at the Academie de la Grand Chaumiere. She now lives in New York.

'A Shot in the Dark' is actually all fun and games Things being what they are these days, 'A Shot in the Dark' may suggest a ghetto shoot-out, a campus revolt, or a freeway ambush.

Actually, and also in the spirit of how things are these days, 'A Shot in the Dark' is a bundle of sex, comedy and a murder mystery artfully and shrewdly held together with intriguing situations and crackling dialog.

The story line may be quite familiar to theatre and movie goers, since it has been produced in both, but like any good show, it is always worth seeing again.

That is why the production which opened last week-end at Carmel's Studio Theatre is quite likely to enjoy a successful run during the next month.

Bill Asp is the director, and while this may not be his best all-time effort, 'A Shot in the Dark' has considerable merit. For one reason he plays one of the key roles, and he should be seen more often. His Beaurevers, the impeccable French aristocrat, stands mighty tall.

Leading roles, however, were in the hands of Walter Pezet, as the magistrate who unravels the mystery, and Rosemary Garrison as Josefa, the guileless maid who is tumbled into bed once too often.

Mr. Pezet probably has his most challenging of many recent roles. As Paul Savigne the young magistrate (in France this amounts to an official court investigator) he finds himself confronted with the French establishment when the maid turns out to be less than guilty of murdering her lover - especially when she is found with him, completely unclad, and with the murder weapon in her hand, albeit unconscious. At this point the finger of suspicion points at - of all people - Beaurevers and his wife.

Miss Garrison, in her first Studio production, scores remarkably well the first week considering the fact that she stepped into the leading role only a few days before. A vacancy, for unexpected reasons, occurred and she stepped up from a lesser role. She knew her lines perfectly and her feeling for the role will no doubt grow with familiarity. The whole play hinges on her performance and while she has a plainness not unbecoming to the role, she has the potential to make it sparklingly believable.

Ron Bucher as Morestan, the court clerk, Ed Healy as Lablache, the prosecutor, Monica Brueni as Sevigne's ambitious wife, and Joyce Crawford as Beaurevers' wife, each add importance to the play. In fact, some of the highlights of the play.

If it's to get away for a few pleasant hours from the turmoil rampant in the land and abroad, and not even to hear as much as the echo of a shot in the dark (or at mid-day), this comedy-mystery could be your dish. It'll be playing weekends at the popular Studio Theatre-Restaurant. GMD

'Open House Audition' for barbershop singers

A special "Open House Audition" for prospective Barbershop Quartet and Chorus singers will be held on Friday night, May 29 at the Del Monte Shopping Center. Prospective members need not know how to read music and no prior knowledge of barbershop harmony is required, according to the director, Neil Keefer, who hopes to increase chapter membership from a 35 to 100 voice chorus this year.

The chorus will demonstrate barbershop harmony at the fountain in the shopping center starting at 7:00 p.m. to be followed by the voice testing and placement in interested visitors who will then be taught a new song in 4-part harmony. "Any guy who likes to sing just for the fun of it ought to try out", Neil added.

The Monterey Chapter of S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. meets every Tuesday night at the U.S.O. in Monterey for 2½ hours of singing and relaxation. It puts on an annual "Harmony at Sunset" show every year in March and has numerous sing-outs and social functions throughout the year. For more information Neil may be reached at 624-1343 or 375-4127.

Bad accident on C. V. Road

Ray Earl Huttel, of 25205 Ward Rd., Carmel Valley, was arrested for drunk driving Sunday following an accident on Carmel Valley Road 180 feet west of Country Club Drive.

The California Highway Patrol said Huttel was driving 35 to 40 miles an hour when he lost control going around a curve and ran onto the shoulder. He hit a power pole, smashed into a parked car belonging to John R. Manning of New Scotland, New York, and clipped a mailbox which toppled onto another parked car, owned by William R. Kennedy of Monterey.

Huttel, who was not injured, was jailed following his arrest.

The California Highway Patrol also reported two accidents in Carmel Valley on Saturday.

George A. Gray III suffered minor injuries when his car struck a power pole on Panetta Road near Carmel Valley Road after he was distracted by a bee in his car. He received first aid treatment at the scene.

The toppled power power lines started a small grass fire, which was extinguished by the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department.

Two Pebble Beach girls suffered minor injuries Saturday afternoon in an accident on Carmel Valley Road near Schulte Road. The CHP said Richard Rodriguez of Carmel had stopped to allow another car to make a left turn when he was struck from behind by a car driven by Sue J. Adams of Birdrock Rd. Miss Adams and her passenger, Mary L. Clark, were taken to Community Hospital by the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department's Red Cross ambulance.

COMMUNITY THEATRE COSTUME SALE SATURDAY

With almost every organization on the Peninsula following the Bicentennial theme and scheduling events throughout the year, the Community Theatre is making their contribution in the form of a costume sale to be held Saturday at the Well's Fargo bank parking lot in Carmel.

The sale will begin at 9:30 and last as long as the supply of costumes of every period, style and color last. Both men's and women's costumes have been selected from the Theatre's overcrowded racks and whether it is a beaded twenties dress or a full dress suit or even an immense pair of overall s that is needed, they will all be found at this unique event.

Mrs. Betty Fowlston is chairman of the sale, assisted by Mrs. Church Chappell, Mrs. Robert Heater and Miss Ruth Fry. For information or donations call the Theatre office, 624-2669

NED THOMAS, Carmel Valley, and Sandy Cederwall, Monterey, enjoyed the champagne brunch at Del Monte Lodge preceeding the Social Spectator Polo Match at the Pebble Beach Equestrian Center Sunday, May 10. An exciting climax to a weekend of parties and hard riding in Pebble Beach was the South's victory over the North to win the Social Spectator Polo Trophy. With just twenty seconds of play left in the 6th chukker, Vic Graber of Oakland scored his second goal of the day to give the South its 9-8 victory. William C. Brooks Photo.

THE TOWN CRIER

ALL CHILDREN who have signed up to attend Camp Amigos in Carmel Valley this summer may attend a free medical clinic at Highland School in Seaside on Saturday. Starting at 9:30 a.m., three local physicians will check campers and sign required medical clearance forms. Children who do not attend this clinic will need forms signed by their own doctors before the camp opens at All Saints' Day School on July 20.

THE ADULT BOARD of the Carmel Valley Youth Center tried something last week. They asked Valley teenagers to drop in Thursday night for cokes and conversation about what kind of program, facility, activity, hang-out or whatever the kids would like to see established in the Valley. Four students showed up.

That says something, but what? What about the rest of you? Did you stay home because you don't like meetings? Or because you figured the adults would try to run everything? Or because you've got plenty to do and don't think there is a need for a high school center of some sort? Or because you don't think anyone would care enough to get something going? Or because you don't think your suggestions would get anywhere anyway?

The Outlook is curious. We'll run one letter or several pages worth from anyone under 21 about what he or she thinks, wants, feels, suspects or hopes for, on this or any other topic of general interest.

And if no one cares enough to write any letters, that will say something, too.

CARMEL VALLEY RESIDENTS were expressing themselves on another issue last week -- the war in Vietnam and Cambodia. Petition tables were set up at three locations to get support for the End the War Amendment, now being debated in the U.S. Senate. As of Monday night, 358 persons had signed petitions in the Valley, according to Martha Senger. Anyone wishing to help circulate this or future petitions to stop financial support for the war may contact her at 659-4187, or Barbara Zeigenhein, 659-4341, or Marge Gardner, 659-2935. Petitions signed throughout Monterey County were mailed en masse to the office of Senator George McGovern last night.

Mrs. Bolgard to head C V Community Chapel Guild

Members and guests of the C.V. Community Chapel Guild enjoyed a fabulous salad pot-luck luncheon last Wednesday. Mrs. Richard King and her committee (Mrs. Roy Kaminske, Miss Sarah Oppenheimer, Mrs. Thomas Verga and Miss Esther Trevino) had decorated the tables with May baskets of spring flowers. Flowers, candles and a gay maypole decorated the laden food table.

Following the luncheon Mrs. Mable Love presented the devotions, and Dr. George Greer was the speaker of the day. Dr. Greer called his talk "Un-titled," leaving it to each listener to supply parallels in her own experience and beliefs as he spoke of poets and prophets.

At the business session which concluded the day's meeting, the Guild voted as their benevolence offerings of the present year to contribute to Operation Shoestring in Seaside, Project Concern, Church World Service, and the YMCA.

The following officers were elected for the year 1970-71: Mrs. Clifford Bolgard, president; Mrs. Roy Kaminske, vice-president; Mrs. Thomas B. McKiernon, recording secretary; Mrs. Vera Stokes, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Leonard Rhoades, treasurer; Miss Esther Trevino, director. Mrs. Norman Bundgard continues for another year as director. The new officers will be installed at a luncheon meeting to be held June 10 at Robles del Rio Lodge.

Reception on Sunday will honor Father O'Brien

The Sodality of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic parish in Carmel Valley is sponsoring a reception from 3 to 5 on Sunday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Boyd Huff on Laurel Drive in Carmel Valley, honoring Navy Chaplain Lt. Cdr. Eugene O'Brien.

Father O'Brien is currently at the Naval Postgraduate School, and he has been assisting the Valley parish this past year. He will depart in June to his new assignment at the Bureau in Washington, D.C. He will be in personnel work where he will interview chaplains from all denominations.

DRUGS TO BE DELTA GAMMA TOPIC

Mrs. Elizabeth Lyon will talk about her work with the Drug Information and Youth Crisis Center in Pacific Grove at the next Delta Gamma Alumnae meeting on Thursday at noon.

The salad luncheon will be held at the home of Mrs. William Hays (Nancy) Ballard on Dolores at 2nd Avenue, Carmel.

All Delta Gammas, whether visiting or new in the area, are welcome and may call Mrs. Daniel (Judy) Tarallo at 375-9745 to make a reservation.

Final rites for Clyde Hitchcock

Funeral services were held this morning for Clyde Vernon Hitchcock, former president of the Carmel Valley Lions Club, who died Sunday after a lengthy illness.

Mr. Hitchcock and his wife, Mary E. (Beth) moved to Carmel Valley 12 years ago. He formerly owned the Adobe Oaks Motel and was District 4C officer of Lions International District 6. Their home is on Merrill Way.

Mr. Hitchcock was born in Vernon, Ill. He served as a field director for the American Red Cross during World War II.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Hawkins of Belmont; a son, Robert, of San Marino; two sisters, Mrs. Grace Holbein of Ontario, Canada, and Mary Hitchcock of Port Arthur, Ontario; and seven grandchildren.

Services held for Kenneth Threlkeld

Kenneth Eldon Threlkeld died at his home on Brookdale Drive in Carmel Valley early Monday morning. He was 60.

Mr. Threlkeld has been a part-time resident of the Valley for 14 years, and at the time of his death was executive vice president of the Central Savings and Loan Association of Chariton, Iowa.

He was born in Chariton on July 5, 1909.

In addition to his wife, Lucille, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. E.D. Davis of Norwalk, Iowa; a sister, Mrs. Clive De Nio, of Des Moines; and a grandson, Brian Ashley of Norwalk.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements. Burial will be in Iowa.
